I GOT SPIRIT

Swashbuckling pirates, fearless firefighters, southern cowboys, and flying Tarzan look-alikes were everywhere during Homecoming Week. This year's overall theme was Vikings Cruise the World. Each graduating class pulled out all the stops to try to win the decorating competition, whether it be by creating huge pirate flags, hanging vines, decorating a New York skyline, or cutting out cacti. Despite valiant efforts by all the classes, the seniors again walked away with first place in the competition. Senior Sarah Ready said, "I think that the decorations were better this year than any of my other years here at North."

YES I DO

The Spirit days this year were different from those in the past. From Barbie Day to Hawaiian Day, students dug through their closets and showed their school spirit. On Friday the student body was treated to an excellent assembly, in which the court for each class was announced. The freshman princesses were Kyla Kirk and Felicia Manriquez, and the princes were Jordan Yellowbird and Dustin Nelson. The sophomore princesses and princes were Julia Beaty, Lea Hummel, Adryan Allen, and Larry Garibay. The juniors electedJeanette Oleman, Nadia Sachao, Chris Miranda, and John Wilhlemi to serve as their princesses and princes. Lucy Walsh, Marissa Kuenzi, and Whitney Williams were the senior princesses and Cole Ensminger, Erik Ammon, and Martin Miranda were the princes. Cole Ensminger and Lucy Walsh were crowned King and Queen. Congratulations to all the court members. The parade this year was also excellent, with clubs like Mecha and the Equestrian team joining in the fun. Overall, it was a great homecoming week at North High.

Homecoming this year was met with great support and involvement. Participation in the annual parade exceeded expectations. The parade was led in familiar fashion by the cars of the Salem Corvette Club, court members in tow. The MEChA club, the Equestrian team, and the Health Services Academy also brought floats, bringing up the rear in the parade right behind the class floats and the "intriguing" toga truck. After an hour-long parade before the game, the floats made the rounds around the North track at halftime.

Even though the game did not turn out the way everyone hoped, North enjoyed one of it's largest turnouts in years, and the crowd remained loud and supportive throughout. Head Football Coach Jay Minyard said, "The crowd was great, and the support during and even after the game really helped our players deal with the loss."

The after-game dance was typically entertaining, as the music played and North students danced the night away, until 11:00 when the administrators made them go home. What the dance lacked in length, it made up for in enthusiasm, as students attacked the dance floor with great gusto.

Overall, the events of September 26th, 2003 were memorable indeed, providing wild entertainment for all those who participated.

I Got You

Juan and Korisa

John B. Watson first introduced the theory in 1919 that there are three basic emotions that students base their everyday feelings on: fear, anger and love. In each of these three categories, there are different degrees of each emotion. Under love falls infatuation, liking of others, flirting and friendship. Here at North Salem High School, there are hundreds of these relationships- from merely friendly acquaintances that we face everyday, to the steady daters that are always in the hall.

Acquaintances and friendship are by far the most common relationships at North Salem High School. Every person needs a friend, and high school is almost impossible to tackle without them.

Tony Sword and Erik Ammon Twelve long years ago, it all started with two fat tee-ball players. "We were fat and we were pity players," said Erik Ammon. "Yeah, we had a lot in common," replied Tony Sword. Tony and Erik, both seniors, are still best friends to this day.

Whitney Svoboda and Konrad Juenling: "Whitney and I met through a mutual friend," Konrad ('05 says. " We later saved her from an infatuated acquaintance."

" Yeah, we'll never forget the ' obsessive breather'!" Whitney ('04) They both laugh. Whitney and Konrad have been best friends for two years.

Steven, Ben, and Kristin at the football game.

Friends Forever

"There are those not quite so common few that pass from being friends into the realm of dating. Guys and girls can be seen linked arm and arm walking down the hall everyday. Sometimes these people last two days or two years together. " My longest relationship was seven or eight months with my boy John McCrae. Love you kid." (Ashley Huff, junior)

When Jennifer Chaffin ('05) was asked who she would choose for her own ' Gilligan's Island', she said: " Me, Shayla Weiher, Megan Snively, Justin Jacobson, Tyler Terpening, Konrad Juengling and John Kohls."

Whether it is through friendships or dating, we get something either negative or positive from each experience that helps us face life's challenges in the future.

Outdoor Activities

Micheala and Tony Boyd revel in a day at the beach.

Outdoor activities and teenagers often don't mix. In fact, some students seem perplexed when asked about their relationship with the outdoors. When asked about her favorite outdoor activities, senior Kendra Hoffhines said, "Hiking and…..um….does eating count?"

Despite this rather blasé attitude towards interacting with the outdoors, many North students turn off the TV and head outside from time to time, particularly during Summer and the warmer months. While most do so to enjoy activities like swimming, hiking, or rafting, some go outside to pursue their greatest passion: causing trouble. Says senior Marissa Kuenzi, "My favorite outdoor activity is definitely mooning cars," adding, "It's actually a family affair: my whole family gets in on the fun."

From flashy clothes to 12-gauge earrings, student styles were everywhere throughout the year. From making a statement to looking their best, most students found a diverse array of reasons to pull out the entire wardrobe and show off their unique style this year.

One of the most popular ways to show off a style this year (particularly for upperclassmen) was certainly tattooing. Although tattoos are primarily stylistic, they can serve other functions as well. Senior Erik Etherton said his tattoo is "a symbol of his committment to his grandma."

Another popular fashion statement this year was piercing. Many students went to the extreme, getting all sorts of piercing all over their body. Amber Doner is one of the students. She has thirteent total already, and is looking to pierce her tongue and her eyebrow in the near future.

So what advice does someone with so much experience have for all those looking to start up their own piercing collection? "Trust me: get it done professionally." Fairly sensible advice it seems.

Whether taken to these extremes or displayed in much more subtle ways, the members North's student body were certainly stylish this year.

Safe Halloween

Halloween is a festive and lively holiday that comes around once a year on October 31st. In the United States and Canada, children wear costumes, go trick-or-treating, and carve pumpkins in different designs.

Trick-or-treating is the main Halloween activity for most children. The youngsters dress in costumes and go from door to door saying "trick-or-treat!" and receive candy from adults. Often times these adults will dress up also to join in the spirit of Halloween.

At North Salem High School, students dress up and give kids the chance to trick-or-teat from classroom to classroom inside the building instead of outside in the cold weather. With most of the first floor decorated and everyone dressed up, Safe Halloween was a sight to see. Costumes included Betty Rubble and Wilma Flinstone (Lucy Walsh and Casey Hultberg), Ancient Roman Gods (Konrad Juengling and Whitney Svoboda), Mad Scientists (Maggie Howe and Lauren Price), plus many more. Interesting kids' costumes that seemed one-of-a-kind were a Rhinoceros, Lilo and Stitch, Fat Elvis, and a Kangaroo.

Each year kids are given this opportunity for safe trick-or-treating, and North Salem needs students to man the classrooms. Think up an original costume and get involved.

If their claims are to be believed, North students are superheroes and well-trained defenders of democracy in their free time. Says senior Archie Crisanto, "I lead a highly trained crack team of troops to battle against the evil forces of a communist regime in my free time." However, further insight proves that students also enjoy more relaxing activities as well. Upon further questioning, Archie broke down and admitted that he actually, "sits alone in his room and listens to the Moulin Rouge soundtrack."

Another senior, Tony Sword, says, "I study the Kama Sutra, eat Milk Duds, and drink Yoohoo until I fall asleep in my bean-bag chair."

It's plain to see that North students are some of the world's most highly motivated and well-prepared experts in the field of high intensity relaxation. Here's hoping this North tradition never dies.

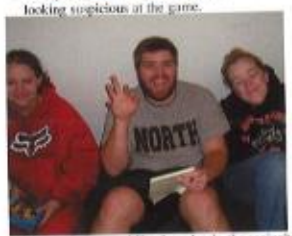
Senior Memories . . .

Geoge Seymour and Josh Hughes looking suspicious at the game.



Autumn, Nathan, and Kendra relax in the senior hall.

What's your blood type? Marissa Kuenzi and Casey Hultberg junior

Freshman year when Casey Hultberg, Jared Messerol, Patrick Callero, and I were so bored in Leadership class that we would play the "car game." We would sit by the window for almost the whole period guessing what color of car would go by next.

- Donica Bender

My favorite memory was last year when at one of the Pep Assemblies, my class of 2004, juniors then, beat the seniors in a class competition. It was the first year in history of North that the juniors ever beat the seniors in competition! The Class of 2004 RULES!

- Courtney Murkin

Freshman year, Lora Ladd and I were on the frosh cheerleading squad. One day at practice we were sitting across from each other. Lora said that her knee itched, she leaned over to scratch it but instead scratched my knee!

-Dani Bahr

One time when my six months weren't up yet, and I had already been busted once for it. I was super paranoid, so when Casey and I wanted to skip fourth I made her ride in the trunk. Other drivers thought I was crazy because I was talking to her and laughing hysterically the whole ride home.

- Kendra Hoffhines

At the end of the day during sophomore finals a group of guys picked up and moved that tiny red european car onto the sidewalk.

-Adam Smith

When Heather Ackley confessed that she thought leather came from a plant.

- Lana Bistrika

One of my most memorable moments would have to be saran-wrapping/ foiling/ T.P.ing John Kohls' car with Heather Ackley and Jon Hillerich while Heather was laughing freakishly loud.

- Alissa Claney

Vikings show their spirit at the Homecoming game of '03

Mr. Davis' college writing class! When he talked about his "groupies," made us write "what happened" in the last five minutes," or when we talked about how girls and boys think. Those were the days!

-Whitney Williams

Sophomore year a bunch of my friends and I snuck onto the softball field and had a mud fight. It was so much fun, but we had to keep it a secret because the administrators weren't too happy, and my clothes never did get the brown stain out.

- Morgan Hutmacher

Junior year when we had Amanda Shimek's sweet sixteen party at Chucky Cheese. Vanessa Stockton, John Wilhemi and I got up and danced with Chucky when he came in and danced for the rest of the kids.

- Whitney Svoboda

Junior year in Human Bio class we all had to dissect cow eyeballs. When I cut mine open the liquid inside squirted all over me!

- Amy Farm

Sophomore year when I was walking back to Slack's class with Tony Sword when he goes, "I know a shortcut, come on." So without hesitation I followed him down some stairs and through a door way. Now understand we were talking and I wasn't paying any attention to my surroundings. When I finally looked up I was in the guys locker room- with guys actually getting dressed down. I was so embarrassed.

- Casey Hultberg

When I let the air out in John Kohl's tires!

-Heather Ackley

Ashley Anderson and Margaret Baumgartner enjoy delicious cafeteria food.

The time me and my friends were cruisin' in my convertible after the talent show junior year and we got pulled over by a cop!

- Lora Ladd

The summer after freshman year I taught Angus the one-armed scotsman to fish (yes with only one arm) before we went to Center Market and grabbed corn dogs from Habib. All the summers after that one paled in comparison: Angus had an identity crisis and decided he was actually a filipino named Archie, and Habib got deported and the new people at Center Market didn't sell corn dogs anymore.

-Nathan Schradle

When Kendra, Casey, Alissa, Lucy, Kristy, and I "scaled" North High senior year.

-Marissa Kuenzi

Football fans acurly freeze to death junior year.

Junior year when I hit the campus moniter's truck and it broke his light cover, but my bumper fell off.

-Ashley Anderson

When Archie Crisanto took Ms. Ellis' pass to the restroom, but when he came back he had no pass because he dropped it in the toilet. Ms. Ellis still has no pass.

- Katrina Chinn

A bunch of us walked around in Target when I got this great idea to ride the bikes. Johnee and I found some old school schwins, then we rode around the store singing the bicycle song by Queen. Then this guy with a voice like Apu told us we had to leave. So we ended up linking arms and skipping while being escorted out.

Why Don't You Get A Job?

Angela Hartzer works at Safeway. She says she hates dealing with crazy people, but she likes the money that comes with it so she can buy clothes.

Danielle Boss currently works at Cold Stone Creamery. She is an ice cream "creator" and she likes eating her creations. She also enjoys singing for tips.

During the first part of her senior year, Maggie Howe worked at Cascade Baking Co. She worked to buy things. She feels that she is helping the economy.

Morgan Hutmacher works at McGraths Fish House. She's worked there for 2 years and hopes to be a server when she's 18.

Ned Braden works at Baskin Robins in the downtown mall. He works to earn money and get experience with the public. He likes sampling all 31 of the flavors. Yum Yum!

North : A Family Tradition

In 1906 the first class graduated from Salem High School. After two relocations and a renaming to North Salem High School, it became the school we know today.

Since North is almost one hundred years old, the grandparents, parents and other relatives of some of this year's seniors have walked the same halls.

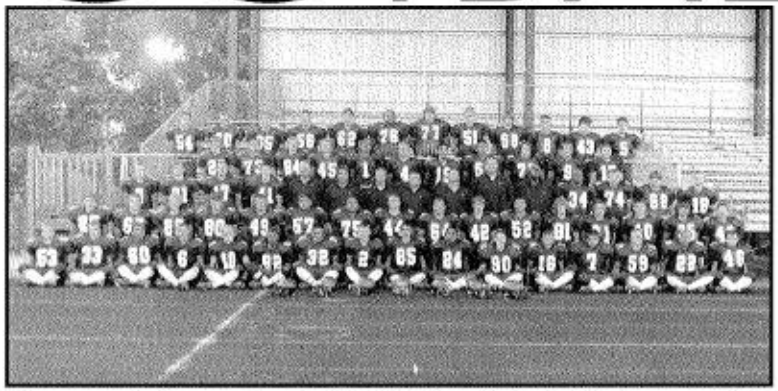
Viking Sports

Varsity FOOTBALL



This year we had a new breed of North Salem football. The team consisted of a very young and talented mix of students, mainly juniors. With some awesome plays made by our boys, we showed the Valley League that the Vikings are a force to be reckoned with!

In our first game this year, the varsity football team put up a valiant fight against the strong McNary defense. Although we gave up a touchdown in the first quarter, we quickly answered back with our new running back, Senior Matt White, who ran the ball in to tie the game at seven. Despite the end result, North's narrow defeat set the stage for a competitive season.

Following the close game against McNary, North Salem had two impressive victories against West Salem and Crescent Valley. Great plays were executed by Erik Ammon at wide receiver, Abe Norman at running back, and Peter Clark at quarterback, among others.

Of course, the football season had not been without its fair share of ups and downs. With several injuries, the team faced a far more difficult road than anticipated. Three starting players - Tyler Lewis, Erik Ammon, and Matt White - were injured in our first game of the season. Luckily, all three boys were soon back on the field, doing what they do best.

With the stands packed every week, this year's chant of the season was "PC," honoring one of our star quarterbacks, Peter Clark. You could see and feel the school spirit at every home game, as the stadiums were filled with a sea of red- and black-clad students. The general feelings of the team and coaches were ones of hope and excitement for the years ahead.

J.V. FOOTBALL

Upon conclusion of the Junior Varsity football season, one thing was alarmingly clear - this year's JV team played with undying passion and enthusiasm! With their positive attitude and competitive backbone, the players had one of the most stunning seasons that North Salem High School has ever seen. "This has been one of the best years for us," said Coach Tony Matta, "One of the most triumphant moments for the team was the game against McKay. They were doing well this year, until our boys put their backs into it and stomped their team into the ground! It completely changed the course of both team's seasons." Despite a season marked by obstacles and injury, the team's positive approach led to a competitive 4-5 record, including two close losses and two runaway victories.

The coaches at the JV and the Varsity levels are proud both of the team's performance this year and of the achievements they predict these players will make on Friday nights in the seasons to come.

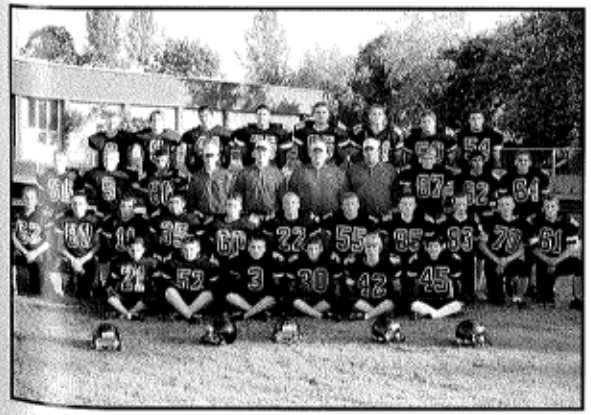
FRESHMEN

This year's freshman football team was, in a word, outstanding! With a 7-2 record and several commanding victories, the formidable freshman talent makes the future of both upper level programs look bright.

It was unanimous among all of the members of the team that the most intense game of the season was the highly anticipated Civil War match-up with rival South Salem. After North Salem's freshmen took a lead into the locker room at halftime, South came back and almost defeated the Vikings, just one flag short of a win. However, the Viking spirit prevailed, and yet another victory was added to the freshman's almost impeccable record!



Although the freshman squad was bursting with talent, a few players had notable seasons. Jordan Yellowbird (Running Back) Robbie Jackson (Wide Receiver) and Jeremiah Baker (Quarterback) all had exceptional seasons. These talented individuals helped propel the freshman Vikings to their best record in years, including several victories against North's rival opponents. Nice work Vikings!

Cross-Country

Left: Will Thompson and J.J. Juul race at Bush Park

This year's cross-country team has grown a lot. The team more than doubled in size, and all of the runners improved their running skills. Led by coaches Don Berger and Tomasina Edgar, the team traveled as far as Seaside and Tillamook, racing in exciting terrain including ocean beaches, dense forest and everyone's favorite, mud. Due to the team's increased size, the Boys Varsity was able to compete in all of the races with a full team. Ben Pearson and Adam Smith, captains of the team, helped lead the team with experience and example, finishing 1st and 2nd respectively in districts for their team. The races are 5K, just about 3.2 miles, long. They take great determination and effort to complete and even without cheerleaders or hundreds of cheering fans, all of the XC team did great.

VARSITY VOLLEYBALL

This year's volleyball team put in hours of hard work and training at each practice. All of it paid off when they overcame their pre-season odds, made it to play-offs, and won the first round against Bend High School in three games! The team continued to Ashland, where they played hard and suffered a tough loss. The girls took fourth in the entire Vally League.

"It was a great feeling knowing we were the first team at North in about twenty years to win the first round of playoffs!" says senior Heather Ackley.

She and fellow seniors, Autumn Helmick, Lucy Walsh, and Alissa Claney, were happy their last season went out with a bang. All girls, regardless of age, worked equally hard, continually encouraged their teammates, and that definitely showed on the court.

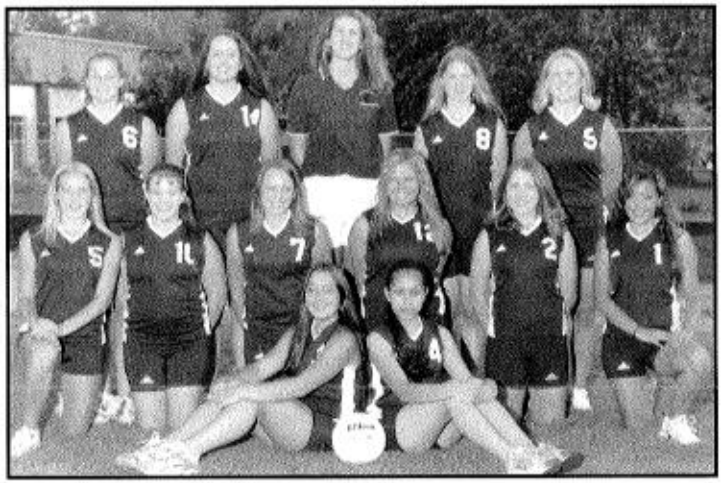
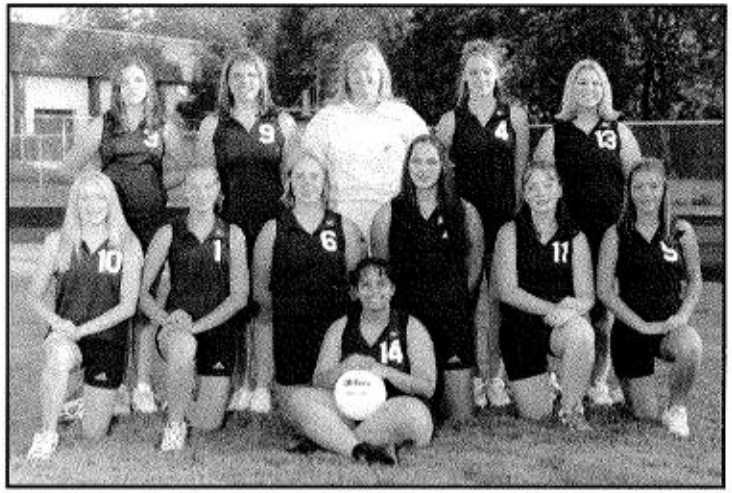
The J.V. volleyball team had a fantastic year! They defeated in 14 of 18 games. The girls competed in several tournaments this season: the Willamette Jamboree, and three other tournaments in Dallas, Springfield, Westview.

To say that the girls did well would be an understatement. The team managed to stay in the top three positions in all of the tournaments! Go Viks! The junior varsity team had three juniors and nine sophomores that contributed to the great season.

One of this year's team members had some things to say about how the year went. Kristin Burke spoke excitedly about how well she and her teammates played this year. She said that the year was good fun, and her favorite parts of practice were the hitting drills, particularly spiking.

Way to have such an excellent season, Vikings!





FROSH

The girls did an exceptional job this year. The freshmen volleyball team went out with a 13 - 5 season - a very good year for the young Viks. Frosh coach Mrs. Boehlke said that, "the season ended up pretty well!"

They had their share of funny moments. One of the most memorable was when Jordan Fenwick was hit in the back of the head with a spoon during a practice.

The team's program motto was "success is a journey, not a destination." Despite some rough spots along the way, the season was definitely a success for the team.

~Sara Do~

The '03-'04 varsity squad had an amazing year. Every girl put in countless hours of hard work and dedication. Through injury and sickness, the girls performed their hardest, had fun, and looked good doing it! The squad this year consisted of juniors, sophomores, and a few amazing freshman.

Most of the girls had never cheered together before, but all proved that they were worthy of their Varsity status by overcoming a lot of problems together, devolping friendships that will never fade, and creates memories that simply cannot be forgotten.

Most of the squad says they will be returning and are pumped for next year's season. The only thing they will be missing is their coach, Molly Zeliff. "We will miss her a lot, but we are going to try our hardest and be even better next year!" Great job ladies, we are looking forward to next year and all the great new ideas, stunts and routines.

Having fun before the game!

With no freshman squad, this year's J.V. cheerleaders worked twice as hard to pump up the crowd at the junior varsity and freshman football games. They worked hard for competition and took first place at the McKay competition in October. They performed well and didn't get discouraged when they lost two of their beloved teammates to Varsity. They missed the hard working girls, but were proud that their friends got such a great opportunity. Good Job Viks!

Over 55 students participated in the boys' soccer program this year. Twenty boys made up the Varsity team, twenty-one were on Junior Varsity, and fourteen participated in Junior Varsity 2. Rich Swartzentruber coached the Varsity team through a winning season! The JV team was coached by Tim Farr, and JV2 by Victor Becerra. The Varsity boys had an awesome season, and they almost made it into the finals, but unfortunately lost to McNary 0-2 in a tiebreaker game.

GIRLS SOCCER

There were many new faces, young and old, that helped make up the varsity girls soccer team this year. They began the pre-season with a few well-fought games and a win against Lebanon by a score of 3 to 1. Fortunately, the team enjoyed great leadership from a select few juniors and seniors. The team captains were Jessica Stout (senior), Jessica Ubay (senior), and Jasmine Zimmer-Stucky (junior). The leading goal-scoring girl this season was Jessica Schindel, scoring three goals for the Vikings!

These Lady Vikings played harder than many previous squads. They frustrated many teams with their tough defense.

The girls played well this year, and made improvements in every practice and game. It was definitely a season full of accomplishments.

Jessica Stout takes the field.

Our group of J.V. girls this year showed tremendous growth as individuals and as a team. The only game won during the season was against McKay, yet the Royal Scots have been the most competitive team since 1998. Only four players were returning from the year before, but the girls used teamwork to become an effective unit.

The defense kept them in almost every game to the end whistle, while the offense scored nine times as many goals as the previous year. Overall, participation and steadfast teamwork was the key to their competition and growth.

Rachel Sullivan
"The most thrilling moment during this season was when Brittney Urban scored a goal from mid-field against Woodburn!"

Sara Stevens
"Our team improved so much with working together. It was great!"

Ashley Ensminger
"No cookies! Once you have one, you have to have more!"

WRESTLING

The Viking wrestlers performed incredibly well this season. Some of the top wrestlers at districts were Matt Cox (district champion), John Kohls (2nd), David Culbertson (2nd), Josh Hughes (4th), Zach Holt (4th), Andrew Johnson (6th), Ricardo Hernandez (6th), Jose Barajas (7th), Anthony Brandenberger (8th) and Mike Hobbs (8th). The team placed 4th as a whole.

After districts, the team sent three wrestlers off to the State Championships, where Matt Cox took 2nd place in his weight class.

Earlier in the year, the team placed 2nd at the Battle of the Border. They placed 2nd at Springfield, and 3rd at Sheldon several weeks later.

Credit for the quality of the performances should also be given to our great coaches, Brad Edmunds and Tony Matta. They helped our Viks have an awesome season full of victories.

After a full day of wrestling, Jared Torassa says, "[wrestling] makes me feel hungry." With all the effort they put into this season, that is probably true for all our wrestlers.

Varsity Hoops

The season of North Basketball had kicked off, and the boys were feeling good about jumping into the games. Justin Hoover was pumped before the first: "I think the team will be quicker and play stronger then last year," he said.

Earlier in the season, North was having trouble trying to pull off a win. But no matter how the season went, the boys never put their heads down.

"Our team had the potential to go further, but we just couldn't pull it off," said Josh Windhaus.

"Next year's North Salem Varsity basketball team will definitely play better!" says Justin Hoover, a 6'1" center for North. Jeff Reyes agreed with Hoover and Windhaus in that the team had improved since the previous '02 and '03 basketball season.

Master of the Courts, Derrick Warnock, explained that they "had a couple of wins, and I think that next year's team will have a great season due to seniors from the opponent schools graduating." It'll depend on how hard they work in the off-season.

Jon Sondon gave his prediction of next year's season, saying, "Next year will be great as long as the team practices twice as hard."

JV BOYS HOOPS

Our J.V. and Freshman basketball teams played hard this year. The freshman team, consisting of Michael Berg, Eric Engelson, James Hill, Adrian Holmes, Shane Hopt, Alexander Jackmond, Robbie Jackson, Jorge Miranda, Nikolas Morse, Edgar Reyes, and Timothy Xiong, and coached by Mr. Charles, ended the season with a 2-20 record. Both their victories came against South Albany, 50-37 and 39-34. The boys had a great time playing, and grew as a team throughout the season. Mr. Charles was proud of them, saying, "they played hard."

Shane Hopt: The entire season was a great experience!

Alejandro Garcia and Allen Kimsey: At least we look good.

Matt Wasson and Tyler Lewis: Our favorite game of the season was Corvallis and McNary.

Mike Hays led the Junior-Varsity team, which included Trevor Cavilee, Joshua Chapin, Daniel Clark, Markos Gallegos, Alejandro Garcia, Allen Kimsey, Tyler Lewis, Joseph Oleman, Jamil Pendergrass, Kyle Reyes, Matthew Wasson, and Kyle Wheeler. They finished out the year with a record of 5-19. Mr. Hays doesn't believe that the record shows what the team can do. "Our last game, we beat South at home. Any year you beat South, it's a good year," he said. The J.V. team is excited for next season, and can't wait to show what they can do. Good job VIKS, we're proud of you!

Dan Clark: Hays is the man!

Edgar Reyes: Basketball is the coolest, man

James Hill: Q: Are you playing b-ball next year? A: You bet your booty I am!

Women's Hoops

I will survive

The girl's varsity basketball season was filled with many obstacles. With two wins in their pre-season, they started off great and won their first regular season game against West Albany. However, in the third week of play, they lost teammates Jesica Stout, Lindsay Crawford, Ashley Huff, and the Valley League's leading scorer and rebounder, Ally Reynolds. Coach Ball comments. "The loss of some key players was very difficult to swallow. But the girls that made it through are champions in my mind, no matter what the outcome."

Guard Courtney McFadden scored in double digits during every game since their departure, and posts Katie Seifer and Jamie Beall have also shown noticeable increases in their number of rebounds and points. Courtney McFadden comments, "Our team is stronger now that we lost valuable players, in the sense that we have been able to bond more, and there isn't so much drama."

In the latter half of the season, the Lady Viks suffered losses to S Salem, McNary, W Salem, Crescent Valley, Sprague, S Albany, and Corvallis, but earned wins over McKay both times, Sprague, and W Albany. Overall, Girls Varsity Basketball finished with a record of 7-17.

This year's season was full of obstacles and challenges. The biggest challenge was most definitely the numbers of the team. Both early and late in the season, the team had to face the loss of several girls due to injuries or illness. The team also gave up a significant number advantage in almost all of their games. Despite a season full of setbacks, the team earned tremendous amounts of respect for their will and determination during the season. These translated into competitive games from beginning to end, as well as many individual and team successes. Good work Viks!

The Freshman girls also had a difficult season, but even in defeat they managed to approach every game with optimism and enthusiasm. Coach Daryl Stickles said, "This year's goal wasn't to win every game - it was to go out and improve every game, which I think the girls did." Despite their 2-16 record, the team definitely enjoyed their season. Holly Holtemeier said "It was lots of fun - it went well, except for the losing part." Brittany Ryan said, "I think we did pretty good actually." As can be seen, the freshman girls were valiant, even in defeat, and made numerous improvements that will pay off later on in their basketball careers.

SWIMMING

Each Winter season, swimmers don goggles, swim caps, and spandex suits for North Salem High's swim team. Freshmen and Seniors alike contribute their speed and stamina to create this awesome group that accomplished a lot this year!

The team was smaller than last year, but they still came out with a great season, coached by newcomer Stacey Brown. Mr. Philbrick was Assistant Coach once again, and played a vital role in directing the new swimmers in practice, giving them a heads-up on what they needed to know. The team worked on flip turns, dives, strokes, and breathing techniques, and it definitely paid off!

The boys' team did well this year, with a number of swimmers that will return again next season to blaze the way. Joey Howe, Jonathan Wilhelmi, Kurt Juengling, Brandon Hornseth, Kyle Jakobi, and Garrett Fisher are a few of the stunning young men who already have well-defined goals for next year. Fast-swimming seniors were boys' team Captian Judson Birkel and Matt Torassa.

The girls' team was led by senior Bethany Loberg. Outstanding swimmers for the team included Freshmen Marianna Fortune and Katherine Tomscha, Sophomore Whitney Robinson, and Senior Kristy Dillender. Freshman and Sophomores mainly made up the girls' team, and they are expected to perform well next year.

Altogether, the season went well, and North is anxiously awaiting the years to come. Next year, grab your fins and goggles, and head to Olinger Pool after school to see what the buzz around swimming is really about!

Jasmine Haberly and Kristy Dillender are working hard... on their smiles.

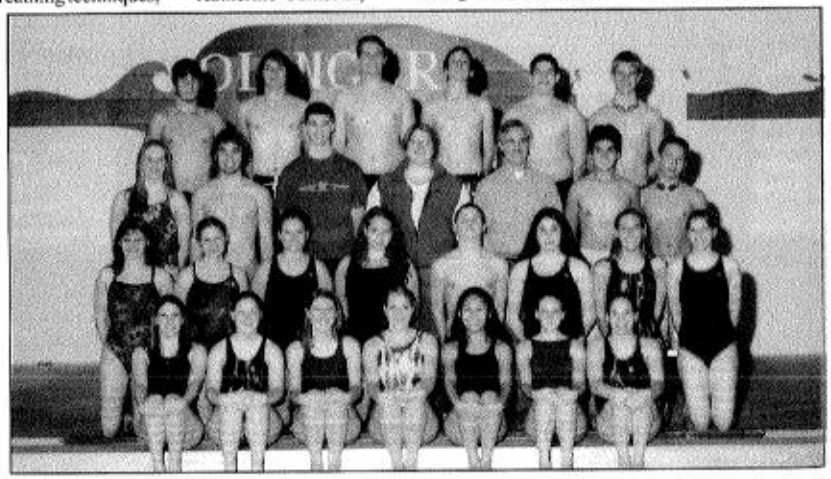
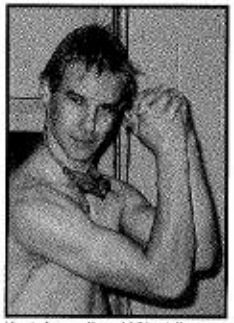
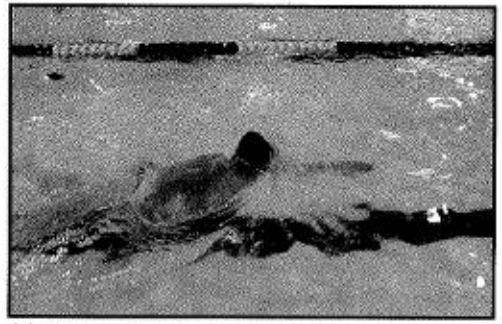
One of the female competitors takes a dive and makes her way swiftly across the pool.





Kurt Juengling (10) strikes a pose for the camera that has the ladies going wild!

Garrett Fisher gracefully falls into the pool at Olinger, where the team practices each day.



A freshman swimmer begins to accelerate once his body hits the cool water of Olinger Pool.

Swimming Mugs

Melissa Earhart (10):
Who do you think has improved the most this season?
I think it would be Betsy, because although she has knee problems, she tried her best and did pretty well!

Katherine Tomscha (9):
Why did you join swim team this year?
I thought it would be a fun way to meet new people and make new friends.

Konrad Juengling (11):
Who was the biggest slacker on the team this year?
That would definitely be Ary Villanueva! Just kidding - I think everyone would agree that it's me.

Kristy Dillender (12):
What was the best thing about practice?
The best thing about practice was being advanced in the beginners' lane.

Garrett Fisher (10):
Who do you think was most inproved?
That would have to be Ben Pearson, because of good coaching and staff.

Hiram Wigant (9), Kurt Juengling (10), and Konrad Juengling (11) are cousins that have a good time swimming for North Salem; it must run in the family!

This team is full of smiling swimmers: Kate Trinh, Konrad Juengling, Ary Villanueva, Jeffery Juul, Hiram Wigant, and another female competitor.

Ben Pearson gives the camera his love with a thumbs up, which means he's done a good job.

On ye vikings, On ye vikings

Athletics are an essential part of high school, whether you're a teammate in the game or a member of the cheering audience. Through trials and tribulations, our teams have stood strong and proud this year. Thanks to the 2003-2004 athletes and the great memories you have left us with.

A New Canvas for Norths Future

Every year about 1200 students enroll in art classes at North. These students have a wide variety of choices when it comes to expressing their artistic talents. Some of the art classes offered here at North are Drawing, Pottery, Ceramics, Calligraphy, Painting, Photography and North's newest art class, Graphics. All of these classes are given at the beginning, intermediate and advanced levels for all skill abilities. Another one of North's newer classes is the Art and Culture class which teaches students the basics of art. Not only has North welcomed new classes but also a new teacher. Mrs. Bond is the new Graphics and Photography teacher here at North. Adding new classes and teachers weren't the only goals for the Art department this year; they have been working on expanding their library of reference materials and translating them to Spanish and other languages. Hopefully in the next couple years the Art department plans to introduce a group of professional artist classes for Cartooning, Digital Camera work, Web Design and Advertising. The Art department has begun to pave the way for its future artists. There is an outstanding amount of artistic talent hidden amongst North's walls. A few of these senior students are Jake Johnson, Matt White, Clint Walker, Kevin Porter, Shannon Warden, Juan Angulo and Janine Hampton-Farr. You can see these students amazing works in the Art Wing of North.

Mr. Chalupsky develops creative windows where you can always find student artwork displayed.

Matt White and Jake Johnson strike a pose to leave their mark in history as famous artists.

Everyone loves to stop and admire the student artwork displayed in the front cases while walking through the hallway. Pictured here are Haley Nicholas and Daniel Mitchell's great craftsmanship.

Paint It Black

Hello Mr. Johnson

Jake Johnson is a senior here at North Salem High School and also one of its most outstanding artists. Some of Jake's featured works here at North are his two wall drawings above the pottery and painting room doors in the new wing. He also designed the t-shirts for the baseball team, and drew the masks of Toespus on the tickets for the drama play Much Ado About Nothing. Jake has been drawing for all of his life, he even says that he's been drawing for as long as he's been able to hold a pencil. He plans on going to college after high school to become either a graphic designer or a tattoo artist. That's right, a tattoo artist, you may even have seen a few of his quick works wandering the halls on the arms and backs of his friends. Every artist has certain inspirations, for Jake his biggest inspiration is one of his teachers, Mr. Chalupsky. Inspiration and talent aren't the only things that go into beautiful artwork. Time and patience are are great virtues which he possesses and respects, and that is a short look into the creative life of Jake Johnson.

Marching Band and Auxiliary

The Marching Band warms up for their PCI competition at Sprague High School. The Vikings took first place.

The Colorguard lining up to take the field at the U of O.

This year's Marching Band season was marked by huge success. After a great season, our pride of the Vikings Marching Band was victorious at their Northwest Championship Competition. They rose skillfully to the occasion, beating Evergreen, the reigning champions, who marched at least twice as many people as North Salem. The competition took place at Oregon State University. Part way through the festival, the prelim standings had Evergreen first, North Salem second, and Grants Pass third. North Salem gave an outstanding performance in the finals and managed to climb their way into first place and take home a victory.

The Viks started off the season wonderfully, too. They took first or second place in all five of their competitions leading up to the championship. They also earned numerous awards at every competition, among them: High Visual, High General Effect, High Percussion, Outstanding Soloist, High Music, and High Auxiliary.

With such a great outcome at finals, is it any wonder how hard they worked to get there? From the start, a camp for two weeks in the summer, eleven hours a day. Then additional rehearsals before school started and next came the scheduling of multiple three-hour rehearsals during the school week. Throw in a Saturday rehearsal and rehearsals on the day of competitions, and you've got some hard working Vikings!

Ending on such a great note, we all look forward to seeing our new champions march next season. Congratulations Pride of the Vikings Marching Band and Auxiliary, you are the Northwest Champions and have made us proud!

Quotes

What was the best part of the Marching band season?

-Andres Cervantes (11): The amazing feeling of winning the championship.

Why did you decide to become involved in band?

-Amanda Shimek (12): Because we work really hard, and it gives you a good sense of school spirit.

Best in the Northwest!

This year at the All Northwest Championship Competition at OSU, North Salem took first place! This means that our marching band and auxilary is the best in the entire northwest circuit. Not only that, but in the final awards, they took Best Music, High Visual, and High Percussion. This was the first year North Salem High has done this but it won't be the last!

Viking Vocal Highlights 2003-2004

North Salem has been blessed with the interest and opportunity to maintain five choirs, and every single one of them has had an amazing year. Northern Lights, the early bird jazz ensemble, won a Gold Medal at the Fall Chamber Choir Festival, and Competed in the Newport Jazz Festival as well. Nordic, North's advanced mixed choir, participated in the Salem Keizer Advanced Festival at Sprague, the District IV Music Festival, and qualified for the State Competition. Polaris, the select all-women's group, went to the Women's Choir Festival at McNary and the District IV Ensemble Festival. Chorale, North's intermediate mixed choir, participated in the Salem Keizer Intermediate Festival at McNary. Last but definitely not least, Camerta, North's large all women's choir, strutted their stuff at the Women's Choir Festival and at The District IV Large Group Festival. Even though all five of North's choirs have individual competitions every year, there are a few in which the choirs come together. The most talked about of these is the Spring Pops Concert. This year the theme was Rock Through the Decades, and it was certainly a night to remember.

A little karaoke never hurt anyone!!

WANTED

Learning lifelong skills, becoming a member of a loving family, and having loads of fun are just a few benefits of joining North Salem's Choir Program . Over the last three years, the choir program at North has grown from only 79 members to 153, but there is always room for an increase in participation. Anyone interested in singing with a great choir, making new friends, and learning the basics of singing is welcome! All five choirs are excited to have new members, especially male voices. If you enjoy singing, come on down to the choir room (rm. 116) and talk to Mr. Kirkegaard (Mr. K works, too).

quotes

Samantha Madderom (10): I've been playing in orchestra for almost 6 years and its been really rewarding. I've acquired great skills and I expect this year will be better than some in the past. I'm really looking forward to it.

Ruth Plateros (10): I've been playing the violin for more than 7 years. It's been fun learning all these musical skills. Hope this year is fun.

Ode To Joy

The term "Orchestra" was first used by the Ancient Greeks. Back in that era, it signified the front area of the stage. Through the ages, it has come to signify a group of musicians that come together to perfom musical pieces. You won't find drums or guitars in the orchestra; it's for stringed instruments like violin and cello only.

No matter what instrument the student plays on, virtually every performer in the orchestra seems excited to play. Heather Ackley says, "I have a big passion for music, so playing cello in the orchestra is great for me." Many students feel that music gives them a constructive vent through which to let out their frustrations.

Larry Garrett conducts students third and fourth block, and leads them to play amazing pieces. During first and second block Mr. Garrett conducts Houck Middle School students, preparing them for the leap into high school music programs. Whether you play the viola or the cello, there are countless opportunities available through orchestra.

What is your favorite book?
- Jordan Fenwick (9): "My favorite book was 'A Child Called It.' Mr. Finck is tight! He makes reading fun!"

What do you think about Mr. Fink?
-Max Price (9): Mr. Finck is a mean, mean man!

Hooked on Phonics:

By about 1485, modern English had developed into what we know it by today. Pronunciation and word order closely resemble the English that we speak. In the 1500's, fewer than two million people spoke English.

Since then, English has spread throughout the world and many countries use it as a native or second language to their own. In other countries, such as Germany and Japan, English is taught in schools along with their native tongue. Our versatile language is used in trade and has become the most common form of spoken communication to date. 600,000 words constitute the largest vocabulary for any language throughout the world.

Students in English class are taught to read prose and poems to shape their understanding of dialect and type of literature pieces. They read classics such as 'The Iliad', 'The Odyssey' and 'Romeo and Juliet' that expand their understanding of literature and grammar. Idioms, conjunction, inflections, tense, vocabulary, voice, phonetics and etymology are terms and phrases that lead us into reading and writing creative pieces. Mr. Finck, Ms. Klingman, and Mr. Everitt instruct our classes and give us insight into a complex and diverse language that is part of our everyday lives.

"There's no disadvantage to increasing your knowledge and taking English," says Junior Erin-Marie Kelly. "Its my favorite class because I love to write!"

As Mr. Finck always quotes from the 'Iliad' and 'The Odyssey', "He never really gave consent it his heart". "What does that mean?", you ask? You'll just have to earn another English credit in one of Mr. Finck's classes to find out.

What's your favorite foreign phrase?
-Alissa Claney (12): "Yo quiero un hombre! (I want a man)"

FRENCH

Japanese

Language is "human speech, either written or spoken." No one knows how language first began. The earliest known written records were word/pictures from the ancient Sumerians made near 3500 B.C. Since then, sounds and basic word patterns have developed into hundreds of languages and thousands of dialects that are used across the globe.

North Salem High School offers the invaluable experience of learning a foreign language. Besides the fact that colleges expect and require at least two or more years of foreign language, taking another language has many other benefits. It can give you a glimpse into another country's way of life, or help you to understand your own language. It helps you add to your general knowledge, and having one more form of communication will never hinder you out in the "real world."

Learning another language is generally hard for most people. "Using the correct forms of masculine, feminine, and neuter articles is hard enough without grammar and every-day vocabulary getting in the way," says German 2 student Kurt Juengling (Sophomore).

Why are you taking French?
-Alena Slovodyan (9):I'm going to France, so it's a good experience to see a different culture.

North Salem High offers a variety of languages; German, Spanish, Latin, Japanese, and French. Beginning and advanced classesstr offered in each. Latin is the newest foreign language to be added to the department, taught by Mr. "Rogo" Reinbold. The newest teacher is Mrs. Yemeya, who replaced Mrs. Mangan as the Deutsch (German) teacher.

No matter what foreign language you take, the skills that you learn are something that will get you further in life. Grab your French-English dictionary and get the credits that you need! Bonjour!

quotes

Why take sports medicine?

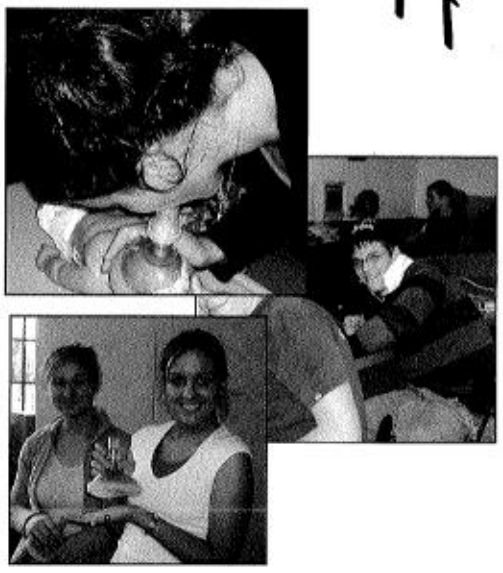
Brian Short (12): If you're an athlete it helps because you can learn about injuries and how to prevent them.

Walk This Way

Health is a state of physical, mental, and social well-being. A truly healthy person not only feels good physically, but mentally and emotionally as well. North Salem High School teaches many classes dealing with the different aspects of health. These include Proper nutrition, exercise, rest and sleep, cleanliness, regular medical and dental care, and many other topics. Students learn the different parts of the body (who knew what an "ischium" was?), healthy habits, and even about less enjoyable topics, such as date rape.

These health classes focus on holistic health, learning to balance all three types for optimum overall well-being. Good health enables us to enjoy life to the fullest and have the opportunity to achieve our goals. Mrs. Dougherty says that her most memorable moment in teaching health has been "going out into the community and meeting healthcare professionals who have graduated from my class." Learn about your body, mind, and social skills and go make Mrs. Dougherty proud!

- Konrad Juengling



quotes

Has taking health classes helped you learn about your own injuries?

Margaret Baumgarner (12): Yes, because it's helped me understand how to prevent and retrain so I can get back in the game.

If you could be an acid or a base what would you be and why?
- Justin Adams (9): Acid, you could get through anything.

What are you looking forward to in this class?
- Erik Ammon (12): The gummy bear torture chamber and chapter nine, the blow things up chapter!

She Blinded Me With Science

The world of Science consists of many fields of study. A scientist may be studying the way an amoeba moves or investigate the patterns of comets in space. They may search for the origins of the universe or try to isolate diseases. There are four main branches of science: Mathematics and Logic, the Physical Sciences, the Life Sciences, and the Social Sciences.

Here at North Salem High, our science department consists of chemistry, physics, biology, marine biology and Earth/Space science. Students are given the opportunity to use a creative process to solve a variety of techniques. They use a number of methods in making discoveries and developing theories. These methods include observing nature, classifying data, using logic, conducting experiments and forming a hypothesis.

No matter what class students take, they learn valuable techniques that can help them through life and possibly throughout future careers. Chromosomes, plate tectonics, antimatter, "Big Bang" theories and relativity are just the tip of the iceberg, so get in there and grab yourself an apron!

Leader Of The Pack

The North Salem Leadership class was responsible for many exciting events this year. In addition to organizing the previously covered Homecoming Week, The Viking Leadership Team was responsible for the Winter Court Assembly, all the Pep Assemblies, and several new endeavors for the 2003-04 school year. These new endeavors included a recently established mentoring program with Auburn Elementary School counselor Stan Roberts.

Furthermore, the Leadership Class established a Sparrow Club account this year, adopting a local one year-old and raising money for his family. The Class also continued its major community service project, once again participating in PGE's Community 101 Program.

In addition, the Leadership Class reinstated on old North Salem tradition: Viking Voice. The program was designed to give students direct access to information regarding school events.

All of these various activities made for a busy year, one marked by inumerable successes for the members of student government here at North.

History

What's Going On

History is the "branch of knowledge that records and analyzes past events." North Salem High School thinks that gaining this knowledge is important, and requires two and a half credits for each student throughout their high-school curriculum. These history classes offer insights to important and interesting events throughout time. Studying these dates, times, places, reasoning, and people behind important events gives us the insight to work around similar potential problems in the future. "History has to be studied," says Konrad Juengling (11), "because otherwise history will repeat itself, as that famous saying states." History takes "strategery," according to Archie Crisanto (12). How true that is! Our world revolves around the past, present, and future, and the more we know, the better off we are. A good strategy would be a great idea.

-Marissa Kuenzi

You + Me = Us Math

All throughout North students are taking math classes of varying degrees of difficulty. These range from Algebra One to Calculus, including the newest math clas offered- AP Statistics. Algebraic equations, bell curves, quantities, multiplication tables, quotients, and matrices fill the heads of Freshmen and Seniors alike. North Salem High School puts a major emphasis on math for all four years of high school, and to get into college students need to complete math classes through 'Algebra 2', although some students don't stop there. Adam Smith (Senior), one of the very few students here at North Salem taking AP Statistics, states so eloquently: "I like math…". Math is needed in our everyday lives: the price of a new sweater, paying the electricity bill, adding up change, and how much to charge people for that 'South Salem' Sweatshirt at a garage sale. These are only just a few examples. All of these math classes give us the needed skills to keep up (if not accelerate) in college and the 'real world' that lies ahead in the future.

Do you like math?

-Saul Vallejo (10): No.

- Mr. Atkinson: Pi, because its a great movie, tastes good, and goes on and on forever and never repeats.... as any good teacher should do.

How is geometry going?

- Blake Ramseyer (11): It's whipping me into shape.

JROTC

JROTC stands for 'Junior Reserves Officers Training Corps.' The JROTC program trains students in schools to become officers in the United States Armed Forces.

The course includes drills, lectures, field trips, and demonstrations. Students who wish to have any sort of military career when they get older use this opportunity wisely.

The JROTC program is a branch-off of the ROTC program. The ROTC program first appeared in 1862, when the 'Land-Grant' authorized grants of public land to state colleges. In return, those colleges were required to offer military training to all willing, able-bodied, male students. In 1908, the first actual reserve commissions were granted. After that, in 1916 the 'National Defense Act' established the first ROTC units.

Since then, JROTC and ROTC have spread to thousands of high schools and colleges across the United States. NSH is the only high school in the city that offers the program. Dismissed!

What are your favorite JROTC activities?
-Samantha Fitzpatrick (12): Colorguard and drill team are my favorites, but for the most part everything in JROTC rocks!

FBLA

Future Business Leaders Of America

'FBLA' stands for the 'Future Business Leaders of America'. FBLA has grown to 108 student members, making it the fastest growing club here at North Salem High. The FBLA program, headed up by our own Mr. Abel, is in its second consecutive year, and already NSH is earning national recognition. Last year at Nationals in Dallas, Texas, two senior FBLA members placed second in two separate events. Sam Kelly (placed second in C++, and Manfred Mueller placed second in Java, both of which are programming language events. This year Nationals were held in Denver, Colorado.

Second year member Erin-Marie Kelly (Junior) says, "FBLA has so much potential, especially considering how well we did last year. It was so much fun last year and this year was even better!"

Besides learning about business, members compete against other schools in events such as Economics, Math, Public Speaking, and Programming Language. Vanessa Stockton (Junior) forms the head of the Student Presidency that helps and directs the members. Other officers include: Vice President Jessica Ubay, Vice president of Public Relations Ashley Haines, Secretary Whitney Williams, Treasurer Vanessa Roth, Recorder Maria Rose, and Historian Isabel Rico.

Just like in sports, the Future Business Leaders of America team goes to districts, then to state, and finally the National Competetition. With North Salem High's nationally recognized program and with debatably the strongest club in the school, FBLA is worth taking a second glance at for its next year at our school.

FBLA members display their award.

Doug Halvorsen and Jacquelyn Struby relax before the big event.

Has this club helped you decide your future career?
-Ashley Bergmann (12): Yes, it has made me interested in a career in business.

What was the funniest thing that's happened this year?
-Ryan Kihs (10): When a group of us went to Olive Garden after districts and they showed us the wine menu.

Jeremiah Leppert, Whitney Williams, and Judson Birkel hang out at the district competition.

CE2

What is the best thing about CE2?
-Kyle Simonson (11): Independence, I can work at my own pace.

Do you like going on job sites?
-Kristin Lehman (12): Yes, because you get to work at places that you wouldn't usually have the chance to.

Jeremiah Quijano focuses intently on his work.

Noemi Herrera, Kelly Charest, Ilda Sandoval, and Alex Mendoza relax in class.

CE2 stand for "Community Experiences for Career Education". Students in their Junior and Senior year of High School are given the opportunity for an alternative learning environment if regular high school is not meeting their needs. CE2 is an individual study plan that is designed for each student according to his or her own needs. Students enrolled in this program learn the basics of career development, life skills, and basic skills, including Speaking, Listening, math, science, etc. Students spend a minimum of 12 hours on a job site per week learning skills that will help them in the future. This means that three days per week the students are gone at the job site and then two regular class periods are spent at the North Salem High CE2 center.

Mr. Hayward, one of the staff members manning the center, brought this program over from McNary High School. This has been the second year for the program, and it has gained success with a group of 30 Juniors and Seniors enrolled. These students earn the same diploma and credits that the rest of NSH students earn, and are also taught the skills that they need to face the "complexities of modern life". CE2 offers students the chance to get the credits that they need and they are taught to feel good about themselves while doing it.

What is one word to desribe health?
- Marissa Kuenzi (12): SCRUBS!

Did you learn anything interesting from club med.?
- Casey Hultberg (12): Lather...rinse...repeat. You learn good hygiene tips.

Doctor Feelgood

Below: Health Occ. students show the vast variety of activities they participate in. Some students work at the hospital, others meet at a health conference, and then some act as injured students for an EMT class at Williamette University. So many possibilities!

Essential to each of us is the ability to know who we are as physical beings and how to take proper care of our minds and bodies. The Health Academy provides students with an opportunity to begin working on career related learning concepts and skills. The demands in Health Services are growing daily, and students who are interested in exploring careers or developing skills have many excellent opportunities. The Health Academy is open to all grades at one of three endorsement levels: Exploratory, Technical or Professional.

Some of the activities that Club Med has participated in include: Marion County health screening, Willamette's Diaster Drill for the EMT students, Health Career Conferences, and teaching health lessons at Elementary and Middle schools. Club Med also plans to compete in the State and National competitions, which will be held in Seaside and Florida this year. If you want to learn interesting and uncommon facts about health careers and look deeper into the world of health- related jobs, join Club Med!

MAPS

How long have you been in MaPS, and how did you get involved with the program?
-Whitney Williams (12): 2 years; I took business classes and Mrs. Comstock said I should be a part of the Viking Branch.

Why did you join MaPS?
-Ruben Tarr (12): This class is a very independent class. You learn responsibility and how to take the lead on your own career projects.

Have you ever seen your fellow classmates with checks, ATM cards, or money orders? These aren't an elite few with 'Daddy's Plastic'- they're members of the Viking Branch of MaPS credit union.

The "Business and Education" United Program is a non-profit organization that is serving a total of 29,000 members in the Marion and Polk Counties. Students and adults with an account can transfer, deposit, and withdraw money and funds right at school. If you forget your student I.D. card for lunch and you need two dollars, don't go begging for it: head on down to the MaPS credit union office located right by the library.

MaPS is available to all sophomores that are currently enrolled in or have passed sophomore economics. The benefits of being a member: 50 free checks with an opened checking acount, five free money orders per month, and an ATM card with free withdrawls on MaPS ATM machines and four free withdrawls per month on non-MaPS ATM machines. You can also access your account and transfer funds over the phone.

This program was created in 1936 by a group of teachers and has grown into a strong program. Students who work in the Viking Branch of MaPS learn 'school-to work' experiences. Members are given the valuable opportunity to give students a real life experience in how to manage their money and funds.

Heather Hatch (senior), an employee of the Main MaPS branch, says, "It's fun and exciting and you get real world experience."

Business

The Business class not only allows students the opportunity for advancement in the field, but also trains them in a wide variety of needed and useful applications. In the class, you'll learn a variety of computer procedures. In the process, you will also define the basic business concepts used in the world today.

Knowledge of frequently used programs, such as Microsoft Word, Excel, and PowerPoint, will be developed in the class. The class is offered to freshmen through seniors and is an important concept students need to be introduced to. There are no prerequisites; but many classes branch from the core business class offering at North. Half a credit is earned for each class, and is considered an elective.This is a strong program that is rapidly growing, preparing students for the fast-paced world of business. If you have an interest in business or just a basic curiosity this is the program for you!

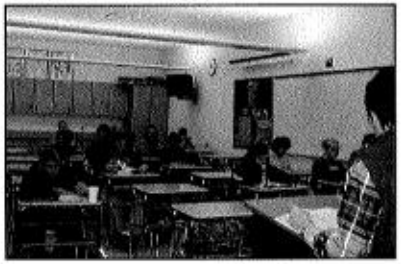
If I Had A Million Dollars

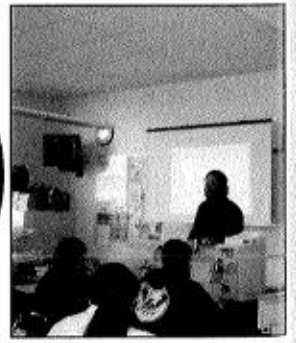
N. Tech

I Love My Computer

In programming, students have the opportunity to learn Pascal, C++, Visual Basic, Access and other comprehension of networking. They may also be selected for a Computer Science Internship, where they earn credit and get paid to program or work with hardware. Students also have the opportunity to take the A. P. Exam.

N. Tech is an innovative course where students learn how to assemble, repair, and maintain computers. They also learn how to provide computer support for the school. This course may be taken repeatedly for credit. There is currently an opportunity for students to train for A+ certification in this course as well as to pursue interests in refurbishing and networking. Several students have used the experience gained in this and other courses to obtain employment. Another exciting course is Cisco Networking Academy. This course requires a two-year commitment and teaches topics from networking essentials through LAN and WAN design. These students should have a C or better in English, have completed Algebra I with a C or better, and have two years of Science. Students must be able to provide their own transportation, and their past attendence should be excellent. All students need to keep up in all of their classes to fully engage in the experience of North's Computer Education courses.





Computer Graphics

I Like It

Overall, the efforts of the Computer Graphic classes are focused in the fields of visualization, geometric modeling, computer graphics and immersive environments. Visualization is concerned with the techniques for the "transformation" of data into meaningful, computer-generated images. Application areas for visualization technology are the analysis of data, physics, chemistry, biology and simulation of complex hydrodynamic processes. Geometric modeling is primarily concerned with methods for the representation and manipulation of curves and surfaces with primary applications in the automotive and aircraft industries. Computer graphics is the development of algorithms that allow the generation of highly realistic computer-generated images of complex three-dimensional objects and phenomena. Immersive environments are part of an emerging brand of technology that provides engineers and scientists with a means for interacting with massive and complex three-dimensional data, typically rendered stereoscopically, in a virtual interaction space. Basically, North's Graphics are for students who are considering a career in art or who want to explore computer graphics and illustration. The curriculum includes a fundamental overview of advertising art. Students will acquire skills in drawing, design, page layout, typography, and computer graphics using professional design software. Computer Graphics II applies the fundamental skills acquired in Graphics I to advanced projects in illustration and computer design. Some professional jobs from the school and community are completed by students. They may design posters, flyers, t-shirts, and CD covers.

Advanced Graphics is a continuation of advanced problem solving and skill building, with an emphasis on advanced education, along with career preperation and placement. If you are interested in a Computer Graphics course, make sure you have taken Art and Culture or have completed the previous Graphics course.

ASB

We Will Rock You

ASB officers discussing their plans for world domination.

Lauren Price, Casey Hultberg, and Marissa Kuenzi gather around the fireplace at one of many interenational conferences.

What's the best thing about being ASB President?
-Nathan Schradle (12): Having an elite team of Secret Service Agents at my beck and call 24/7.

What's one of your favorite memories from leadership?
-Casey Hultberg (12): Definitely the trip to Seaside when the senior girls purchased a "love kit" and slowly planted pieces of it in teachers' belongings.

What exactly do you do?
-Marissa Kuenzi (12): I catch the Viking spirit and share it with my fellow Vikings. Once a Viking, always a Viking.

Why did you decide to participate in student government?
-Lauren Price (12): I like being on the inside of events, and we have a lot of fun (YWAM, OASC, popcorn cakes, and dance parties).

ASB is perhaps the least understood group here at North Salem High School. The common perception is that ASB officers are simply members of the Leadership class with slightly different titles. In reality, the ASB officers are specially trained government administrators and politicians who single-handedly attend to the social and professional well being of each and every student here at North. This significant charge leads to many late-night emergency meetings and constant weekends spent flying to international conferences in Paris and Geneva.

If you haven't already guessed, ASB is actually an extension of the leadership class. They participate in the same activities, organize the same events, and have the same duties.

REACH

Reach For The Stars

Thanks to REACH, this year's Talent Show was a great success, and students and staff here at North were able to take pride in their decision to make healthy choices during Red Ribbon Week. REACH members also donated their time to raise hundreds of dollars for the Salvation Army during the holidays, as well as put on a successful benefit concert for a local family in need.

REACH Club has touched the lives of many individuals with their contribution in such events. The members are advised by Darren Hunter, along with President Lucy Walsh, Vice-President Nathan Schradle, Secretary Autumn Helmick, STARS Rep. Ashley Haines, and Peer Mediation Rep. Jasmine Zimmer-Stucky.

Why did you join REACH?
- Maggie Howe (12): I joined REACH because I like being involved in school events and helping the community become a better place.

Have you enjoyed the responsibilities of being President of REACH?
- Lucy Walsh (12): Yes, it's given me the opportunity to coordinate assemblies and activities that are aimed at helping the student body.

Autumn Helmick musters a smile for the camera.

Twinkle Twinkle Little Star

The honorable STARS Team councils middle school students on making the right decisions when it comes to relationships. These leaders have become a valuable asset to our community.

Teaching kids about the consequences of their actions, the STARS Club has made an important impact on others' lives. Each member is initiated with two days of training, and any STARS alumni are required to attend a one-day training to refresh their skills. The students then visit middle schools in the Salem-Keizer area for three sessions - Fall, Winter, and Spring. Each session lasts five weeks, allowing a stronger connection between leaders and middle school students and more time to reinforce the lessons.

Our community is greatly benefitted from STARS, and we have Advisor Ken Slack to thank.

What is the funniest thing about teaching STARS?
-Jasmine Zimmerstucky (11): The questions that the kids ask about sex, because they think that you are there to teach them about sex, not abstinence.

STARS

ROOTS

ROOTS (Respecting Others' Opportunity To Speak) enjoyed its second year here at North during 2003 and 2004. During the year, the ROOTS club became far more active than in the past, organizing events and taking a role in student government. Three ROOTS leaders joined the Student Leadership class this year as ROOTS representatives, and many more played an active role in Freshman Orientation and pep assemblies throughout the school year. Led by President Ai Wilson and advisor Derek Finck, the ROOTS club looks forward to even more involvement and expansion in the years to come.

Consumer Studies

Clothing Workshop

From peparing foods to designing clothes, consumer studies courses at North this year were in full swing. Students in all four grades added these classes to their schedule, taking advantage of the excellent opportunity to learn some applicable life skills in a high school setting. The classes this year were taught by Ms. Beck, Ms. Holcomb, and Ms. Everitt. Many school events this year were catered by the foods classes, whose chefs were hard at work preparing a wide array of dishes all year long. If your schedule is looking empty next year, and you're interested in learning some pracitical skills, grab your apron and sign up for consumer studies.

We Are Family

Model United Nations

The United Nations (UN) is an organization of independent and peace-loving countries that work together for world peace, security, and the betterment of humanity.

There are six main branches of the United Nations: the General Assembly, Security Council, Secretariat, Economic and Social Council, International Court of Justice, and the Trustee Councilship. Each branch consists of many committees and specialized agencies that deal with many diverse topics. Much like our own government today, the UN has many checks and balances in each of its branches to ensure equal control.

North Salem High School has its own form of the United Nations: "Model United Nations" (M.U.N.). Members debate subjects in certain committees at a conference in the Spring against many other public and private schools. Students choose a committee that they are interested in and try to solve and pass bills with other delegates from across the state. Each school represents at least one country (sometimes two), and this year NSH represented South Korea. Committees range from the rights of Women to solving the problem with depletion of water resources around the globe. No matter what committee a member is on, MUN is a fun club that gives you many opportunities to meet people, eat food, and get scholarships from some colleges. "Its awesome - you should do it, baby!" says Mr. Finck, the M.U.N. advisor (along with Mr. Blus).

Members include: Max Beeken, Kristy Dillender, Bethany Loberg, Marissa Kuenzi, Carrie Elmore, Devon Porter, Doug Halverson, Daniel Pearson, Jill Severson, Nathan Schradle, and Ross Polly.

Social Science

The Social Sciences department is a diverse and interesting one that lets students study the things that they find interesting or still need credits for: 20th Century Studies, Government and Polotics, U.S. History, America in the World Wars and Global Issues. This department also includes Psychology, Sociology, Youth and Law, World Religions and Latino Studies. Juniors and Seniors are given the opportunity to expand on the basic classes that they took as Freshman and Sophomores and focus more on specific topics that they want to study up on. Community and business classes are combined to give students the diversity of topics that they need while still focusing on topics of interest.

About
History

This year's High-Five team had a great, undefeated season. The team of 12, consisting of four returning members, traveled to Portland in October to appear on the High-Five television show. Despite falling short of qualifying for championships, the team still had a great match against Northwest Academy, winning 2360 to 2350. It was one of the closest matches the show has seen. Coach Karen Kinnett described the experience as exciting, saying, "It was great to compete and be on television." With many talented underclassmen on the team, the Vikings are sure to be contenders in the years to come as well. Anyone interested in joining should talk to Mrs. Kinnet. Next time you see one of these members in the hall, give them a high five for having such a great season.

Sam Callero smiles as his fellow teammates wield their buzzers and get ready to answer the questions.

How did you become involved in High 5?
-Nathan Litke (12): I slipped Mrs. Kinnett 20 bucks...just kidding.

Naturalist's Club

When one hears the name "Naturalists' Club," one typically envisions a group of tree-hugging geeks banding together to preserve natural resources and lands. In reality, the Naturalists' Club is a group of tree-hugging geeks banding together to preserve natural resources and lands. Advised by Rich Swartzentruber and Jon Yoder, the club does far more than the typical tree-planting or landscaping community service projects. The club's actual emphasis is on experiencing and appreciating nature.

Its members participate in a wide array of outdoor activities, the most notable being geocaching and bird watching. Despite their reluctance to be labeled as members of a typical community service group, the members do participate in several volunteer activities throughout the year as well.

In addition to these more scientific endeavors, the Naturalists' Club members also take time to enjoy some fun activities, including hiking trips to Opal Creek, treks through the snow (weather permitting), and Winter Break parties. If you love to get out and enjoy nature, or are simply looking for a way to get involved, the Naturalists' Club is the place for you.

What smells? The perspiration of hard work!

Since 1983 (headed by Mr. Chuck Smithey), North Salem High School has been offering a course called "Weight Training". Currently, Coach Ramirez and Coach Minyard head up the weights class that lets people get the workout that they are looking for. There are two weights classes (Beginning and Advanced), and both offer the chance to gain knowledge of weight training exercises, improve fitness, and improve body composition.

In the class, students have the opportunity to do the bench press, exercise on the squat rack, and work out on the incline. These are only a few of the many available activities. Weights class is the perfect opportunity to get in shape for sports and to get the toned look that you have been going for. Since students need one 'Physical Education' credit throughout high school, Weight Training is a popular choice for students after they have completed Freshmen P.E.

Are students in Weights keeping up with good work?

Coach Minyard: "Yeah, yeah! I only had to hit a couple of kids so far (joking), but so far they are doing good."

How has the class been with students so far?

Coach Ramirez: "A lot of people are keeping up well. Some are doing summer sports like football and basketball, so the class is doing all right.

What is the hardest thing about Weights class?

Jon Hillerich (12): Covering up in the locker room.

Whats the funniest thing that has ever happened in Weights?

Press Release

Even though we are really laid back, when it comes down to it, everyone gets their work done. It's a lot of fun.
-Donica Bender

This was my first time working on the yearbook. And since I was in charge of the Senior Section I had to learn fast. I got it down and had a lot of fun doing it. It was a great way to start off my senior year!
-Morgan Hutmacher

Newsproduction

There is a quote written in fresh purple paint on the wall of the newsroom that says, "I love deadlines; I like whooshing sound they make as they fly by." That single sentence is actually fairly indicative of the approach taken by this year's hardworking News Production staff.

This year it took a lot of hard work and dedication to get the yearbook done. " It's a lot harder than it looks," senior Nathan Schradle said of the process. This year's yearbook staff was one of the best in years, with many first-time staffers making excellent additions to the already talented team. Fortunately everyone learned quickly, deadlines were met, and the yearbook came together nicely.

Of course the yearbook only occupied the time of half of the staff. Time that wasn't spent chasing down quotes and wading through pictures was devoted to work on the school newspaper, the Clarion. The Clarion also had a great year, surpassing the previously stated goal of five printed issues and featuring a wide variety of articles, including the arrival of our new principal Mr. Honey, the Benefit for Laine, and our new bell system. Sophomore Michael Farr remarked on his time with the Clarion, "It was a fun learning experience. I've gotten to apply skills I already have to a project I love to work on. A great deal of satisfaction comes from producing something that informs the whole student body."

Whitney Svoboda, Editor-in-Chief, commented on the Clarion, "I am extremely proud of the Clarion this year. We had a really great mixture of stories. I think that is the result of a very diverse staff. It's been a great year."

Even though the staff was hard at work, everyone seemed to find some spare moments to enjoy themselves. Sophomore Amanda Tilley, Yearbook Editor, said her favorite memory from the class was "Hanging out with friends! Oh...and of course making the yearbook." Junior Konrad Juengling said, "This class was a lot of fun and it gave me a lot of freedom to do the kind of work that I wanted to do." Then, of course, there was always a few jokes flying about the room.

All in all, it was a blast working in North's News Production class this year. Both publications were both fun and challenging to put together, and the entire staff hopes that both the yearbook and the Clarion entertained and informed their loyal readers this year.

ENGINEERING TECHNOLOGY

Behind the red protective curtain, sparks fly as students begin to weld together their car. (Above)

When asked what his prediction of his own cars outcome would be in the final races, Junior Ben Abboud (left) replied; "I think that something will break and the driver will flip the car and go out in a fiery blaze of glory. Hopefully I'm not the driver when it happens."

Boys in the welding area give a thumbs up.

"LIFE IN THE FAST LANE"

When asked what the most difficult task has been in this class, James Garrison (Senior, right) replies,'drawing the plans; nothing's really hard in here, it's really easy."

Esteban Lourca, (Junior, above), works on his leg and rail table in Cabinet-Making II class. He plans to keep working with wood after high school.

Seniors Sean Johnson, Christian Francis and T.J. Willihite, go over life-size drawings of their soon to be electronic car.

It takes a well-oiled group of students putting their minds together to create the plans of a winner.These cars wont cross the finish line without the production of many drawings.

Adam Knox, left, (senior) goes over detailed drawings with his group.

When asked how he first became interested in woodworking, tenth grader David Petersdorf (above) says, "I thought it would be cool to make stuff with my hands." Many students come into their first year with the anticipation to build awesome furniture. When asked if she could build anything, Shannon Pruett (tenth grade, above right) stated that she would build "a bookcase" because "I read alot."

While Daryl Gayler (junior, right), continues to cut out joints for his cabinet, Mr. Anderson instructs Scott Jenson (sophmore, upper right corner) on how to use the drill press.

Cabinet Making I & II

Many students come into this program with the vision to build, and build is what they do, but not until they fine-tune their masterpiece on paper. Most people wouldn't assume that these students spend as much time behind the drawing board as they do behind the power tools.

Mr. Anderson aides Junior Mark Holman in the task of changing the blade on the mider saw.

"It's a neat chance to learn a trade (skill) thats been around a while and probably always will be." Mr. Anderson states, while discussing how budget cuts are affecting the program.

"If I Had A Hammer"

Left, senior Josh Wadsworth places the members of his speaker box in place.

Cristina and Yadira take advantage of the nice atmosphere.

Melissa takes an order

This year's new location for the Coffee Shack has seemed to be a sucess. With more space and a more convient spot close to the cafeteria, more students come to get their daily caffeine fix. Jesse Gonzales, a coffee shack employee, says his job is fun because a lot of students just come to hang out. The coffee shack is also unique because North is the only high school in Salem with anything like this. Managers include Kristen Allen and Mary Suitter, both sophomores. Mrs. Scialo is the head honcho.

Teacher Aides

Jake Johnson (12) gives the camera a half smile, as he says "I love being an aide."

Vilayluc Phanc (10) is still smiling after being disrupted by two yearbook students with a camera.

Our teachers here at North Salem High School work hard to give us the education that we all use on a day-to-day basis. Whether they are teaching choir or English, teachers sometimes have work loades that are more than they can handle and they take on a student aide to help. Whether it is getting coffee from the Coffee Shack,grading an assignment, taking attendance or cleaning classroom supplies, aides give teachers the extra boost they need to complete their day.

Elena Morales (12) busily works away at filing papers in the attendance office.

Stephen Holcomb (11) enjoys the freedom of being a teacher aide.

What are the perks of being an art aide?
-Jessica Painter (11): It allows you to participate in only the things you like about art class.

Why did you choose to to be an aide?
-Jacob Andrews (10): Because I had a hole in my schedule and I needed a class to fill it.

Do you like being an aide for Lee?
-Kaite Seifer (12): I love it! Lee is like my second dad.

Security

The Safety Dance

Ross is working on his groove thing. Go Ross!

Why are Ross and Papo dancing? They are making the halls safer by doing the Safety Dance!! Anyone who goes to North has seen these two patrolling around school. They are here every day protecting us in the halls. Officer Clem Spenner doesn't believe in the Safety Dance, but he has his own methods of keeping our school safe. Security at North is top of the line. Good job guys!

Just another day at work for Ross Ziesemer. Poor kid didn't see it coming.

We've got to regulate!

Go get 'em!

National Honor Society

The National Honor Society has made its presence felt at North Salem since 1933. It is overseen by an advisor that guides the members and helps organize their efforts. Bev Pratt has been the advisor for the past three years. Members include upperclassmen who have shown outstanding character, leadership, service, and scholarship. This year, the club had 39 members. The Society President is Stacey Barchenger, the Vice President Rachel Sullivan, Treasurer Leslie Mason, and Secretary Virginia Kestler. The NHS holds community service as their number one goal. During 2003 and 2004, community service events included planting trees at Clagget Creek, volunteering with foster children, organizing the Winter Food Drive, and many other helpful activities. NHS also organizes the Annual Honors Night held at the school. These activities allow Honor Society students to apply their recognized academic abilities to real-life situations and community involvement.

Kenneth Strawn and Lana Bistrika team up to study for an examination.

James Robinson laughs uncontrollably as he reads today's delightful Marmaduke comic strip.

Most of the members of the National Honor Society gather round the 400 building for a rare group photo opportunity.

Charity Hildebrandt (Char-Bear),

You're all grown up now, my little shining star. God has given you so many talents, let them shine and know your Mom will be there for you through your great adventure of life. I'm so proud of you.

Love, Mom

My AMAZING daughter Ashley Adair Anderson,

You have grown so much over the years, from my little devil to my princess. There are not enough words to tell how very proud I am of you and all you have accomplished, Ashley, don't ever forget to reach for the stars and follow your dreams; they will come true. You are truly AMAZING!! Thank you for being the best daughter and sister anyone could have ever asked for.

Congratulations.
Love Mom & Andrew

Ashley,
You have a light inside you that has shined on others and us. The world awaits your loving, outgoing, and talented personality. With all the places you will see and all the things you will do, you will always be our most beautiful niece.

Congratulations.
Love Aunt Karen, Uncle Michael & Emily.

Christian,
"How wonderful life is while you're in the world."
We love you and are so proud of you everyday!
Mom, Dad, Kaitlin, and Kayla

Whitney,

Thank you for all the wonderful experiences. You are going to do great things. We are very proud of you. Congratulations and Good Luck!

Jared McCutchen, our little cowboy, who has grown up to be such a fine young man. You have worked so hard to achieve so much. You couldn't make us any prouder of who you are! Keep being all that God wants you to be. Good luck at Montana State!

All our love,
Mom and Dad.

Adam Stone,

You are a blessing and a great person. Be enthusiastic, do many things, and meet lots of new friends. Always believe in yourself and follow your dreams. We love you always.

Love, Mom and Dad

Derrick/Darebear,
It is amazing to us how fast time passes and here you are a senior. You are an inspiration to us. You worked hard at school and you have succeeded. I know you can accomplish anything you want. You are our basketball boy... Bulldog #34
We love you very much,
Mom & Dad

We dedicate this page to you

You are Awesome

My princeee on Snowball Night.
I love you so very much.
Mom

Thank Heaven for little girls.
They grow up in the Most Delightful Ways.
Summer, we are very proud of you, and always remember this--we love you very, very much.
And Reach for the Stars, Honey

Mom, Dad and Jacob

It's time to close the door on your 4 years of golf. You gave us many special moments. It was such a joy to watch you compete and come home with 3 District Championships. What an accomplishment. But, most of all, for being the very special person you are, we are very proud to call you our granddaughter.
All our love always,
Grandma and Grandpa Smith

Go Viks 04

Bethany,

Congratulations! It's been fun from day one watching you grow up. You are a wonderful daughter and sister.

Te queremos mucho, siempre.
